

Opite David Oluwoleferi

MTE01/025

BS

GST 122

Report of Covid-19 and the effects of lockdown and restriction of movement on Nigerians.

Corona virus is a new disease that originated from Wuhan in China in late December, 2019. The disease is contagious and can be spread through droplets of sneezes from the nose when one sneezes or from the mouth when one coughs and also indirectly when you come in contact with an infected surface then later touch your face. Right now there is no cure but there are methods to prevent it and also help in combating the virus. The first measure and important one is to wash your hands regularly at least for 15 seconds or alternatively use alcohol based ^{hand} sanitizers.

Another method is also to avoid crowded places as the virus can easily be contacted through crowded places. Wearing of face masks also helps as they prevent droplets containing the virus from reaching your face. Then also maintain social distancing with friends and close relations. And if you figure out you are showing symptoms contact the nearest hospital as soon as possible. The symptoms are fever, dry cough, fatigue, sore throats, these symptoms are the mild symptoms. Then when it gets critical it causes difficulty in breathing.

The virus doesn't show symptoms immediately it gets into the body but the carrier can still transmit. So being this no one knows who is infected or not easily until a test is carried out. As a result of this to prevent further spreading of the virus the government came up with a plan which was to with the restriction of our movement and it is called lockdown. Everyone is expected to stay at home during the period of lockdown.

This lockdown has effects on ~~the~~ some of the Nigerian citizens and ~~big~~ Nigeria being a developing country this effect was not more of us.

So many people in this country has been struck with hunger and have to do menial jobs to get money to feed, some of have to risk their lives and have products on the road. Due to the lockdown they can't get money to feed and there is a possibility that people in this condition may die of hunger.

It can also lead to increase in crime rate as criminals will use this as an opportunity and more people are tend to steal since they don't have a way to find food to put on their table. Some people even breach the lockdown rule, and this is the reason armed forces have been put in places to watch out for those that want to breach the law.

But the armed forces are also taking it to far as over 15 people have been killed by the armed forces. So it shows this lockdown actually brings lot of negative effects aside its purpose of curbing the corona virus.